Whereas Secrets Playa Mujeres is geared toward romance-seeking adults, Finest Playa Mujeres caters to the kid-toting family crowd. There is plenty to see and do here for the kiddos, but parents are not forgotten (this is an all-inclusive, after all). Plus, all accommodations are suites, giving plenty of space for everyone.

Reception can be a bit hectic, especially midday when bags and kids crowd the area waiting for their rooms to be ready. Low-rise buildings surround pools, gardens, and patio spaces. Cool towels and drinks are distributed freely, and an impressive buffet spread stays open three meals a day.

A la carte dining includes Japanese teppanyaki, French, and Italian cuisines. Reservations are not required, but guests begin to line up right before opening time. A steakhouse dishes up fine cuts of USDA meat while Surf & Turf offers seafood. An American diner, roving food truck, tapas cafe, and Tex-Mex room are all on offer. There's a restaurant on the beach, and servers deliver meals and cocktails to those lounging poolside, too.

Pools are ringed with lounge chairs and palapas for shade, and the swim-up bar keeps vacationers refreshed. Other bars are located by the beach, near reception, and within some of the restaurants. Many feature live music starting at sunset. Lounge chairs with shade are also available on the sand; guests are quick to point out that there is less hubbub by the pools here since there are no organized activities such as water volleyball or aerobics (kids still frolic playfully though, so it's not too quiet).

One Spa is the property's hub of pampering where massage and beauty treatments dominate the relaxation menu. There's a hydrotherapy circuit for guests to soak in hot and cold waters before being pummeled with strong jets of water. Given the resort's focus on families, the separate menu and spa facilities for children and parents are a nice touch. Supervised activities for toddlers, kids, and teenagers provide further diversion as does the free selection of non-motorized watersport equipment.

Free wireless internet is available in most corners of the resort, and meeting facilities comprise 17,000 feet of space ranging from boardroom to ballroom setups. The resort does a fair amount of convention and incentive group business, and wedding parties are an almost weekly occurrence. Parking is free.

Forget the tropical flair here, these accommodations boast trendy furnishings. Spanning nearly 800 square feet, the suites offer more than enough space. The color scheme shows light pastel colors of baby blue and beige. Duvets cover the memory foam mattresses, flat-screen cable TVs provide entertainment, and separate living areas feature cushy sofas and coffee tables. Minibars are restocked daily, and the wireless internet and international phone calls are free. Bedside are iPod docking stations and power outlets. Baths have rainfall showerheads, thick towels and robes, whirlpool tubs, and hairdryers.

Finest Club suites stretch feature unique amenities like Nespresso machines, private deck, and hammocks strung over the outdoor plunge pool. Many of the ground-floor units are actually swimout suites, meaning guests can walk directly from their patio to the pool. Higher floors have furnished balconies with excellent ocean views; privacy on lower floors can be limited due to passersby. Excellence Club accommodations experience an upgraded roster of amenities including a private lounge for check-in and cocktails, private section of beach, turndown service, Bulgari toiletries, and better labels in the minibar. These are reserved for adults only (18 and over). All accommodations have a small compartment by the door that allows for room service delivery without disturbing the guest (no one likes to answer the door in a robe).

Since the resort is in calmer Playa Mujeres, there is less of a party atmosphere in this area. Families will find everything they need onsite for a comfortable and fun vacation, but honeymooners should stick with the Secrets nearby.
